Our deep and sincere gratitude to our community of friends and supporters who have helped us through a pretty amazing year! 2014 saw a severe ice storm and damage in February, a close-by fire and near-evacuation in August; a record year of babies and clinic intakes in general; a record number of visitors, programs, and support. And throughout it all, a stalwart cadre of phenomenal volunteers, from veterinarians to special projects to transporters, board members, animal care and education team, who just hung in there and took care of business.

CRC thanks each of you who so clearly share our passion for these graceful, awesome creatures. We are grateful to those who visited, were a facebook fan, sent in-kind or financial contributions, adopted a bird, volunteered, invited us to bring birds to your classroom and or brought a group here, called us about an injured bird, or sent friends to visit - THANK YOU! Our mission to foster a connection between people and birds of prey bloomed during 2014.

May 2015 be a year of peace and prosperity, good health and beauty for all.
